Rob Kilpatrick

Robert Kilpatrick

Robert Sheridan Kilpatrick, 90, of Andrews, went home to be with his Lord and Savior on Sunday morning, March 12, 2023.

Known as Rob to his friends and family, he was a native of the Marble community. Born on Feb. 14, 1933, Rob was the son of the late Royall Thomas and Jessie Mable Anderson Kilpatrick. He was preceded in death by his parents; his brothers, Jack, Kermit, Ernest “Hun,” John Morgan “Morg;” and sisters, Madge Kilpatrick (infant), Ola Kilpatrick May and Elaine Kilpatrick Amos.

He is survived by his wife of 70 years, Juanita Crisp Kilpatrick; and their four children, Karen Kilpatrick Reaver (Stanley) of Maryland, Robin Kilpatrick Allen (Jim) of Murphy, John Kilpatrick (Sheila) of Andrews, and Alan Kilpatrick of Marble; their grandchildren, Shawn Hooper, Rick Reaver (Jen) and Scott Reaver (Kimmy) of Maryland, Jimmy Allen (Shelley) of McCaysville, Ga., and Emily Kilpatrick Merritt (Seth) of Andrews; plus nine great-grandchildren, four great-great-grandchildren; and his brother, Eric Kilpatrick of Marble.

During his childhood, Rob felt a deep, rooted connection to the mountains he called home, a connection which never faded throughout his lifetime. It was in this valley of his beloved mountains that he met his soulmate, Juanita Crisp, and they married on Jan. 10, 1953. He worked at Berkshire Mills, Remco, Magnavox and Baker Furniture, from which he retired after many years of dedicated work. He was a coach for his sons’ baseball teams, took many family outings and picnics with his famous frying pan in the family pickup truck “Old Red,” and taught Sunday school at Andrews First Baptist Church, where he was a member. The Nantahala Gorge and Wayah Bald were two of his favorite spots for picnics or “tater” and fish fries with his family and his fishing buddies, Leonard Stillwell and Howard Crisp.

Rob always looked forward to spring, when he could walk the mountains to dig in the ramp patches and gather poke salat. He spent hours roaming the hills reflecting on his life and having talks with God. He also liked walking in his neighborhood where he enjoyed stopping to talk with his neighbors. Every summer he would spend his evenings in his garden, and he derived immense joy from being able to gift his family, friends and community members with fresh vegetables.

Rob’s love of music was profound, and he loved playing his banjos, fiddles and harmonicas, in addition to listening to his favorite artists from Jim Reeves, Patsy Cline and Don Williams to Celtic Woman. He passed his love for music on to his family, most of whom sing and have been involved with music throughout their lives. During his many backyard football and baseball games with his children and neighborhood kids, he took the opportunity to impress upon all of them a love for God and a responsibility for their local community. He was extremely intelligent, curious and a staunch proponent of education. He loved to read and read everything from science and medical texts to westerns, science fiction and literary classics.

While the family feels a great void with the loss of his presence, they are comforted to know that he is no longer suffering, he is at peace, and now he is running down the streets of gold toward the crystal river and the mountains he loved so dearly.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday, March 18, at Andrews First Baptist Church with the Revs. Mickey Stewart and Calvin Bobo officiating. Interment will be in Valleytown Cemetery. Pallbearers for the service are Seth Merritt, Jimmy Allen, Bill Dahdah, Michael McGuire, Shawn Hooper, Jeff Womack and Jake Buchanan.

The family will receive friends from 1-2:45 p.m. Saturday, March 18, at Andrews First Baptist Church prior to the service.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorials in memory of Robert Sheridan Kilpatrick be sent to Andrews High School, 50 High School Drive, Andrews, NC 28901 to promote higher education for local students. Please note “scholarship funds” in the memo area. Cash donations may also be taken to the school.

Ivie Funeral Home, Andrews, is in charge of arrangements.

Dalton Finance Department recognized for excellence for the 20th straight year

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF DALTON

The city of Dalton's Finance Department has once again been recognized for its commitment to transparency and excellence by the Government Finance Officers Association. The department has received the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting, the highest form of recognition in governmental accounting and financial reporting, for the 20th consecutive year.

The certificate is presented based on a review of the Annual Comprehensive Financial Report (ACFR) prepared by the Finance Department and supervised by Chief Financial Officer Cindy Jackson. The latest certificate of excellence was given for the report covering the 2021 fiscal year.

Every city in Georgia is required to prepare an independently audited financial report annually covering the previous fiscal year. The report goes beyond what is required by state law and includes more information about the city's finances than just the raw numbers. The report includes a Management Discussion and Analysis, a transmittal letter and a statistical report. These reports provide residents with a comprehensive understanding of the city's financial standing, accomplishments and future plans.

According to Jackson, "Preparing an ACFR and earning this certificate is just going above and beyond what you have to do. It's just a little bit further step up to show more professionalism and transparency with all of the data."

She added, "These reports are how residents can find out all of the information about a city. It has a lot of budget information, and you can see the trends on tax collections, tax rates, sales tax information and information down to the number of service calls for the police and fire departments. It's got a lot of good information so you can find out about your community."

The Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting recognizes the city's commitment to fiscal transparency and sound financial management. The Finance Department and Jackson have once again demonstrated their dedication to providing residents with the information they need to make informed decisions about the city's future.

"If we just gave you a financial statement it would be numbers, but the ACFR tells you what we did, what changed during the year and what we're doing in the future so it gives you a much clearer picture," Jackson said.

The Government Finance Officers Association is a professional association of state/provincial and local government finance officers in the United States and Canada. The association advances excellence in government finance by providing best practices, professional development, resources and practical research for more than 19,000 members and the communities they serve.

Dalton Police searching for missing man

SUBMITTED BY THE DALTON POLICE DEPARTMENT

The Dalton Police Department is asking for the public's help in locating 32-year-old Nicholas Lee Napier. Napier has not been seen since Feb. 28 and his family believes he might be at risk.

Napier is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and has reddish brown hair and blue eyes. Investigators say Napier might be in the Cleveland, Tennessee, area but they do not have any confirmation of that.

the meeting time they can go back and watch it," said Andrew Parker, city administrator.

"Whereas before maybe the audio wasn't clear or there wasn't any closed captioning, we have that now. We have multiple camera angles so you're able to actually see the person speaking at the lectern or on the dais, or the member of the public that's speaking, where before we didn't have that capability. It's definitely an improvement for the city and the public to ensure that we have a transparent government that the public can view at any time."

"I was very pleased with it," Paez said. "The transitions are very smooth, and you can actually see the reactions and that's one thing that I really wanted to emphasize, the expressions of the council members. When they are asked questions or when they're making statements, I want to see their facial expressions and I wanted to project that to the mass audience."

The IT department is continuing to work to refine the video feed and in coming weeks will be improving the quality of the video seen by online viewers. The city's YouTube channel can be found at youtube.com/cityofdaltongorgia. Previous council meetings can be viewed under the "live" tab.

If the values are unequal, either party may equalize the values by making a cash payment, not to exceed 25 percent of the value of the lands transferred out of Federal ownership. The non-Federal lands proposed for acquisition by the Forest Service may include wetlands and floodplains along the creek segments. The Federal lands proposed for conveyance by the Forest Service may include wetlands and floodplains along the creek segments. In addition, the exchange is expected to meet Forest-wide standards and guidelines, and the Management Area direction as described in the Land and Resource Management Plan. However, there may be a need for project-specific Forest Plan Amendment in regard to standards for Forest Plan Management Area (MA) 8d - Natural Heritage Areas. The conveyance of Federal Tract C-61, 13.4 acres, is within MA 8d and would not meet Forest Plan standard MA-8d-52 which states "Retain all lands as public lands". The 2012 Planning Rule (36 CFR 219) requires notice of which substantive requirements of sections 219.8 through 219.11 are likely to be related to the amendment. Suspension of Forest Plan standard MA-8d-52, through an amendment, is likely related to the consideration of § CFR 219.9(a)(2) Diversity of plant and animal communities. The scoping comment period for this project is being combined with the 45-day notification and comment period requirement for proposed land exchanges. The public is invited to submit any comments or concerns about the exchange proposal, including advising the Forest Service of any liens, encumbrances, or other claims relating to the lands being considered for exchange, as well as any comments on the proposed project-specific Forest Plan Amendment. Comments received, including names and addresses of those who commented, will be considered part of the public record for this proposed action and will be available for public inspection. Comments submitted anonymously will be accepted and considered; however, anonymous comments will not provide the agency with the ability to provide the respondent with subsequent environmental documents. This project is expected to be documented in an environmental assessment and decision notice; and will be subject to objection (see 36 CFR 220.7). Comments must be submitted in writing to the District Ranger, Caddo-LBJ National Grasslands, 1400 US Highway 81/287, Decatur, TX 76234, within 45 days after the initial date of publication of this notice. Comments may also be submitted electronically via the online comment form at:	https://cra.fs2c.usda.gov/Public/Commenting?Project=63526. George Hallmark's life in art

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

George Hallmark of Meridian is one of the most accomplished and awarded artists in America. “As an artist you first try to do something that you like and that you hope appeals to people,” he says. “I think a painting should be something that stops you, something you’d like to step into. You just make every painting the best you can.”

George grew up in Joshua, a small town near Cleburne. “We had no art in school. I was the class artist. Every class had one. There were only fifty of us that graduated together. For busy work, teachers let me draw. By the time I got into Junior High, the teachers would give me their tests. One side of the paper had questions; the other side had drawings. I did maps, parts of a flower or skeleton or whatever was going to be on the test. Well I’m no fool I looked at the questions, so I knew pretty well what the questions were going to be when the test was handed out the next day.”

His first formal training as an artist was when he enrolled in Tarrant County College. He took design courses that led him to do some architectural work. Even though he was poorly prepared, an architect asked George if he could do some delineation. “And of course the delineation shows what a building will look like when it’s finished. I asked the architect if I could take this home and work on it over the weekend. He said fine. So I went straight to the TCU bookstore and bought two books on architectural delineation, worked on it all weekend and taught myself how to do it. I took it to him and he told me that was exactly what he was looking for.”

George got a job with an architectural firm but did some art on the side. A collector saw some of George’s work and took him to a gallery in Dallas. After about an hour looking at the samples George prepared, the owner said he would like to handle George’s work. “I swallowed the hook. From then on that was what I wanted to do be: a fulltime artist.

“I asked around and found out who was the best oil painter and teacher. It was a man at a University in Utah. I spent three weeks watching him paint. When I asked him what was the cost he told me just to do some good work. Later, he was a judge in some events where my work was in competition with other artists. We remained friends a long time and when he passed away I got to say a few words at his funeral.”

George has always had encouragement in his quest to be an artist. A café owner in Cleburne knew George was a struggling artist and told him to just sign the check for his meals. The café owner never asked George to settle up. He has some of George’s paintings. So do several notable people.

George has spent a good amount of time in Mexico and that is reflected in his paintings. He is considering moving there and perhaps opening a shop in a hotel to sell his prints. His latest work is a painting of chili queens in San Antonio in the late 1800s. He calls it The Queens Court and it’s on display in San Antonio’s Briscoe Museum.

PENALTY AND INTEREST WAIVERS

In January 2023, the Reeves County Tax office was experiencing computer interruptions and we could not post payments for a few weeks, at different intervals. Due to the time constraint, I reached out to our legal consultant and as to how to manage the penalty and interest (P&I). The delinquency date was fast approaching on February 1st. In order to provide some relief to the tax payers, due to the delays, our legal counsel advised that we offer penalty and interest waivers throughout the month of February,2023. In March, we continued to issue the waiver on a case by case basis.

At our regular County Commissioners meeting on 3/13/2023, they requested that I make some changes on the availability of the waiver. We’ll be posting the notice in our office lobby, placing an ad in the local newspaper, radio station and on the Reeves County Official website. The waivers must be signed and dated by the property owner or the agent and must be returned to the tax office at the time of payment. The waiver is due to expire on July 31, 2023.

For a copy of the waiver:

You may call our office @ 432-287-0223 to request a waiver.

Smithfield CEO Defends China Link

Shane Smith points to sales growth since WH Group acquired the Virginia company

By Patrick Thomas

SMITHFIELD, Va.—Smithfield Foods Inc., the country's largest pork producer, is defending its turf against growing concerns from lawmakers over Chinese control of U.S. agriculture.

The Virginia company, which was acquired in 2013 by Chinese pork company WH Group Ltd., said its ownership has helped fuel steady growth over the past decade and export more of its products to China, the world's biggest pork market. Shane Smith, Smithfield's chief executive, said WH's backing has helped the company increase its sales, hire more U.S. workers and expand its plants' processing capabilities.

Smithfield's Chinese ownership has also made the 86-year-old company a focus of criticism in Washington, D.C., as U.S.-China tensions have grown. Some lawmakers in Washington and at the state level say they want to ensure the U.S. food-supply chain is protected and that China can't use U.S. farmland to facilitate spying.

Mr. Smith, a longtime Smithfield executive who took over as CEO in 2021, said those concerns are misplaced.

"We're as American today as we were in 2013," he said during an interview at his office overlooking Virginia's Pagan River. "When you meet with politicians and have those discussions, they seem to understand that."

Mr. Smith said Smithfield has discussed contingency plans in the event China escalates efforts to absorb Taiwan, a concern among U.S. leaders.

Smithfield is the biggest U.S. pork processor by volume, slaughtering about 30 million hogs a year, and a major supplier of hams and other fresh pork cuts to grocers' meat cases. The company sells products under brand names including Armour, Farmland and Nathan's Famous, in addition to Smithfield.

The company was founded in 1936 by the Luter family in Smithfield, Va., a town of about 9,000 people and home to a 120-year-old ham. The town once hosted George Washington as a guest at a Main Street inn.

Smithfield sold itself to WH Group a decade ago for $4.7 billion, after years of high grain costs and an industry glut of hogs pressured pork producers. At the time, WH Group's acquisition ranked as the biggest Chinese takeover of a U.S. company, prompting concerns in Washington. The Committee on Foreign Investment in the U.S., which reviews national security risks of foreign acquisitions, ultimately cleared the deal. WH Group is publicly traded in Hong Kong and has investors across the globe, including from the U.S., the company said.

Concerns over China's involvement in the U.S. economy have increased since the acquisition. Alleged pressure on U.S. companies from Beijing to hand over intellectual property was a central part of the U.S.-China trade fight under the Trump administration.

U.S. national security officials have pointed to technology and equipment made in China or owned by Chinese companies that they warn

Honeywell President Picked as Next CEO

By Colin KellaHER

Honeywell International Inc. tapped a 34-year company veteran to succeed current Chief Executive Darius Adamczyk, a switch that comes as the company faces slowing growth in the year ahead.

Honeywell on Tuesday named Vimal Kapur, 57 years old, as its next CEO, effective June 1. Mr. Kapur, who is joining the Honeywell board, has been president and chief operating officer of the Charlotte, N.C., company since June.

Honeywell said the 57-year-old Mr. Adamczyk, who has been CEO since 2017 and chairman since 2018, would continue to serve as executive chairman. He has been with Honeywell since 2008, joining as part of the company's acquisition of Metrologic.

Honeywell also said Doug Wright, president and CEO of its building-technologies segment, is leaving to pursue another opportunity. The company named Billal Hammoud, currently president of its smart energy and thermal solutions business, to succeed Mr. Wright effective April 1.

Honeywell shares closed at $192.97, declining less than 1% on Tuesday. They are up about 5% over the past 12 months.

Tyson to Close Two Chicken Plants, Cutting 1,700 Jobs

By Patrick Thomas

Tyson Foods Inc. plans to shut down two of its poultry plants and lay off nearly 1,700 workers as it tries to improve its chicken operations that produce about one-fifth of the U.S. supply.

Tyson notified the nearly 1,000 employees at its Van Buren, Ark., chicken plant on Monday that it would close on May 12, the company said. About 700 workers at Tyson's plant in Glen Allen, Va., also found out on Monday that its plant would close in May, according to the local United Food and Commercial Workers International Union, which represents employees at the Virginia plant.

The Springdale, Ark., meat company said production would be shifted to other Tyson plants. The company said the closures were part of a broader plan in its chicken division to improve operations and use full available capacity at each plant.

Chicken production overall in the U.S. is expected to increase by about 3% in 2023.

"The current scale and inability to economically improve operations has led to the difficult decision to close the facilities," a spokesman said.

Tyson reported last month its biggest percentage drop in quarterly profit in over a decade. Its long-dominant chicken business is under increased pressure as the company's profit margins fall from historic highs during the pandemic.

Tyson has about 124,000 employees in the U.S. and more than 140,000 globally, according to its most recent annual securities filing.

The company said it is working with affected employees to apply for open jobs at other facilities.

Tyson last month reported declining operating income from its chicken business to $69 million for the quarter, compared with $140 million a year earlier.

Overall, Tyson said its profit for the three-month period ended Dec. 31 fell to $316 million from $1.1 billion a year earlier. It was the company's largest year-over-year decline in quarterly net income since 2009, according to FactSet data.

Shares of Tyson have fallen nearly 33% over the past 12 months and closed up slightly on Tuesday at $57.30.

Earlier this year, Tyson ousted the president of its poultry business, David Bray, who had led the business since 2021.

The company named Wes Morris, who had retired from Tyson in 2017 and previously ran its prepared-foods business, as the new leader of its chicken division.

Mr. Bray had been leading an effort to revamp the chicken business, which had struggled for years to hatch enough chicks and meet customer demand while paying more for labor to staff its plants and grain to feed its chickens.

"We are cleaning up and have been cleaning up some issues," Chief Executive Donnie King said on a call with analysts last month. "We still feel really good about our chicken business."

Mr. Morris, the new head of poultry, said on the call last month that Tyson can do a better job of making sure it has the right amount of chicken at the right locations to meet shifting consumer demand.

Chicken prices have fallen sharply in recent months as processors increase supply. Boneless, skinless breast meat prices fell from $3.50 in May of last year to about $1 by January, according to research firm Urner Barry. The price drop squeezed profits at Tyson and rival chicken company Pilgrim's Pride Corp.

Chicken production overall in the U.S. is expected to increase by about 3% in 2023, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department.

The company has shuffled much of its leadership team over the past six months, naming new heads for its international, prepared foods and chicken divisions, as well as for its beef and pork unit.

Hundreds of corporate Tyson employees are also leaving the company as it closes several offices housing employees of its beef and pork and prepared-foods divisions and moves those functions to northwest Arkansas, The Wall Street Journal has reported.
